

Summary -- Logo for the Transitional Justice Process in Ethiopia

The logo for the Transitional Justice initiative in Ethiopia symbolizes the interconnectedness and multifaceted nature of the transitional justice process. Here's how the design and colors can be interpreted:

1. Interlocking Shapes: The four interlocking shapes represent the pillars of the transitional justice framework: justice, accountability, reconciliation, and reparation. The interconnection symbolizes how these elements are intertwined and must work together to achieve a comprehensive and effective transitional justice process.

2. Colors:

- oGreen represents hope, renewal, and the growth of a just society.
- o Yellow symbolizes the clarity, truth, and transparency required in the justice process.
- oBlue stands for peace, stability, and calm, reflecting the reconciliation aspect.
- oRed represents courage, passion, and the struggle for justice.
- 3. Central Black Shape: The black shape in the center, formed by the intersection of the four colors, represents the core of the transitional justice process, where all the pillars converge to address past wrongs and pave the way for a peaceful and just future.
- 4. Abstract Representation: The shapes are abstract representations of pillars or structures, symbolizing the foundational elements of society that are being rebuilt and strengthened through the transitional justice process.

Overall, the logo conveys a sense of unity, strength, and a forward-looking approach to rebuilding the nation through justice and reconciliation, grounded in the principles of transparency, inclusivity, and respect for human rights.
